Police Department UCPD

Policing agencies around the country are facing the need to both police and protect large groups of people in public spaces, including those gathering for events, rallies, protests, or political demonstrations. Agencies have been preparing their personnel for the proper responses and training them in best practices for these circumstances (see Attachment 1). UCPD looks to ensure the safety of crowd members, bystanders, and officers all at the same time. We provide excellent training in all these fields, and we prepare for public safety needs continually.
