The City’s new brand will be unveiled at 7:00 p.m.

A strong brand identity is important for communities as they work to attract new residents, businesses and customers. The look and approach for presenting University City, with this new brand, be consistent through all platforms (website, stationery, news releases etc.) When established, the new brand will allow University City to reach a point where people will hear the brand tagline, think U City, and think of all the positives that are connected with this great community.
